Engaging design for digital campaigns

I produce engaging digital marketing campaigns and have the skills to take on total creative production in concert with top-tier marketing teams. In these projects consideration is given for producing device-responsive media-rich; posts, emails and landing pages with lead gather scenarios that result in effective anonymous-to-known user conversions. Then, nurturing those users.

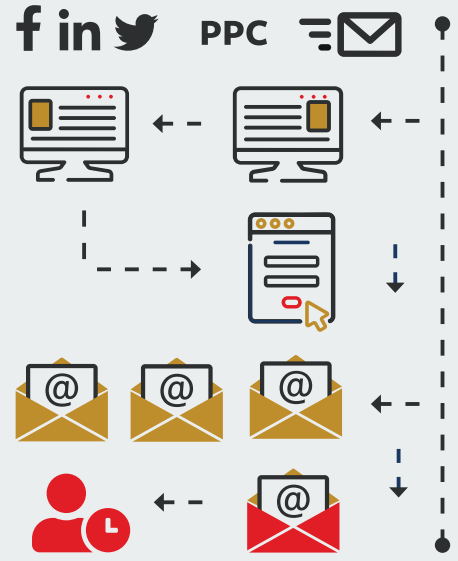

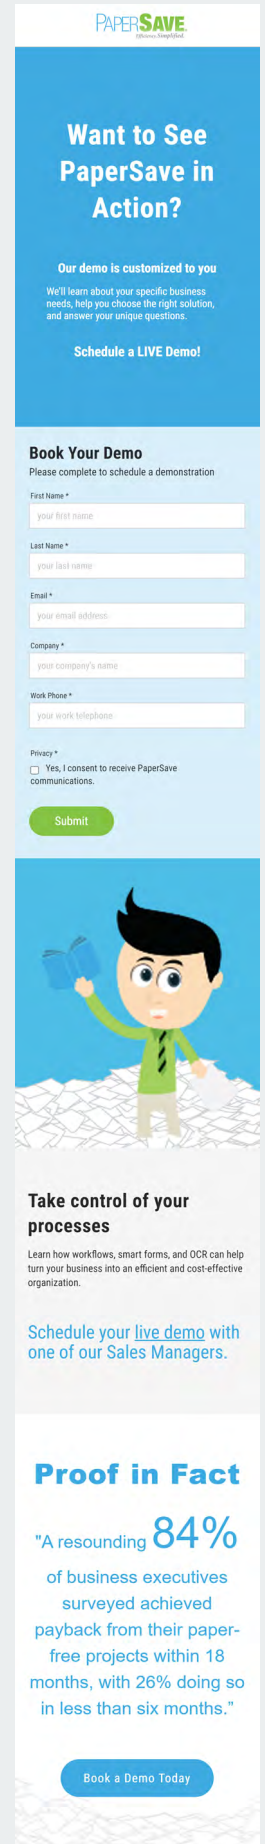

For PaperSave's Book Demo campaign, I owned total creative project production. This included; consulting on project, devising user path scenarios, creative direction, creating prototypes and production assets. Designed and coded, then published brand-centric marketing content. Applied advanced list segmentation and constructed auto-delivered nurture email campaigns sent based on user behavior.

“These look fantastic and spot-on to the concept that we developed. Bravo and thank you for your help on this, we appreciate it greatly.

- VP Digital Marketing, Miami, FL USA

For a Mars Wrigley ambassador recruitment campaign, I owned total creative project production. This included; marketing team engagement. I devised user path scenarios, drove the creative direction, created prototypes and production assets. Designed and coded assets, and published content. Applied advanced list segmentation and constructed nurture email campaigns auto-delivered based on user behavior.

“We are extremely pleased with these assets. They are very high quality and will well represent our brand.”

- Digital Marketing Manager, Mt. Arlington, NJ, USA

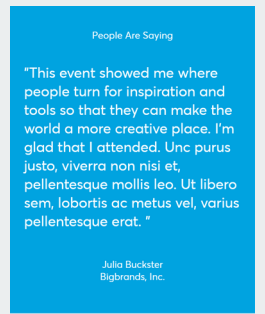

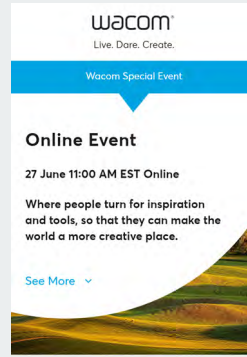

For Wacom, I designed and coded all foundational elements for their development of promotion assets in a marketing automation platform and email service provider. This included; marketing team and administrator-base engagement. From brand guidelines, I created prototypes and a library of high-impact template landing pages, forms and emails that administrators use creating promotions. Devised and installed innovations in personalization and dynamic content.
